(Due to the extensive public interest in the issue of solitary confinement, I have also provided interviews and contributions to a number articles in various newspapers, magazines, and radio and television news reports and documentaries; I have not been able to keep up a catalogue of these, though they certainly include The Boston Globe, The New York Times, The Los Angeles Times, The San Francisco Chronicle, The Denver Post, The Christian Science Monitor, New Yorker Magazine, and National Public Radio, as well as others.

MAJOR INTERESTS IN FORENSIC PSYCHIATRY

1. Psychiatric Effects of Solitary Confinement

I have had extensive experience in evaluating the psychiatric effects of stringent conditions of confinement and the mental health care afforded inmates and detained juveniles so confined. I have served as an expert in a number of both individual and class-action lawsuits addressing these issues. My observations and conclusions regarding the psychiatric effects of such confinement have been cited in a number of federal court decisions, for example: Davenport v. DeRobertis, 844 F.2d 1310 (7th Cir. 1988), Coleman v. Wilson 912 F.Supp.1282 (E.D.Cal, 1995), affirmed in 2011 by the U.S. Supreme Court sub. nom. Brown v. Plata, and Madrid v. Gomez, 889 F. Supp. 1146 (N.D. Cal. 1995)

I prepared a written declaration for Madrid describing the medical literature and historical experience concerning the psychiatric effects of restricted and isolated conditions of confinement as well as of other conditions of restricted environmental and social stimulation, and subsequently prepared the general (non-institution specific) and non-redacted (non-inmate specific) portions of that declaration into a general statement, which I have entitled Psychiatric Effects of Solitary Confinement, 22 Wash. University Journal of Law and Policy, (2006). It describes the extensive body of literature, including clinical and experimental literature, regarding the effects of decreased environmental and social stimulation, and more specifically, observations concerning the effects of segregated confinement on prisoners.

I have given lectures and seminars regarding these issue. Although I do not have a complete list of those lectures and seminars, they include, but are not limited to, lectures at Harvard Medical School-Beth Israel Hospital, Boston, at meetings of the Nova Scotia, Virginia and New York State Bar Associations, The Office of Military Commissions of the U.S. Department of Defense, The Federal Capital Defenders Habeas Unit and The Correctional Association of New York, as well as invited testimony before state legislative hearings in New York, Massachusetts and Maine. In addition, I was recently appointed as a consultant to the Psychiatric Correctional Advisory Committee of the New York State Commission on Quality of Care and Advocacy for People with Disabilities (more recently renamed The New York State Justice Commission.)

I have been retained as an expert in class-action lawsuits regarding these issues in Massachusetts (2), New York (3), California (2), Kentucky, Michigan, New Jersey, Ohio (2), Texas and Florida, as well as individual cases in other states, including California, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Maine, Massachusetts, New Mexico, New York, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Texas, Virginia and the State of Washington. I have been retained and consulted by a variety of public advocacy groups, including The United States Department of Justice (DOJ), The Legal Aid Society of New York, Prisoner's Legal Services of New York and of Massachusetts, the Center for Constitutional Rights, The Massachusetts Civil Liberties Union, the National Prison Project of the American Civil Liberties Union, and the Department of Corrections of the State of Florida. I was a psychiatric expert for the DOJ in its evaluation of the Pennsylvania prison system, and had a similar role in Ohio regarding juvenile facilities.

Since the tragic events of September 11, 2001, I have also been consulted regarding the confinement of a number of individuals who were deemed to be “enemy combatants” and/or were either charged with or convicted of conspiring against the United States. These include individuals who were confined in Guantánamo, in the Navy Brig in Charleston, S.C., in the Federal ADX prison in Florence, Colorado and in the SeaTac facility in Seattle, Washington, as well as in federal detention centers in New York City and Miami, Florida. Decisions in some of those cases, and my published findings, have been cited in Federal Appellate decisions, and have also generated significant national media interest.

Issues have included: mental illness among inmates so confined and psychiatric decompensation as a result of such confinement; adequacy of mental health evaluation, monitoring and treatment; effect on ability to assist in inmate’s own legal defense (both pretrial and postconviction); “volunteering” for execution; impact on inmate’s ability to cooperate with government in debriefing and testifying. Additionally, I have been consulted in a number of cases involving detention (at Guantanamo, Charleston S.C. Naval Brig, and various Federal Detention Centers) of accused terrorists.

The 1983 American Journal of Psychiatry article listed below described the paradigmatic neuropsychiatric syndrome associated with solitary confinement. A more extensive review of the literature, including clinical and experimental literature concerning the effects of decreased environmental and social stimulation, as well as specifically, observations concerning the effects of segregated confinement on prisoners, is contained in the 2006 Washington University article listed below.

2. Trauma, Including Strip Search Procedures, Sexual and Physical Assault

Psychiatric expert in a number of strip search cases in Federal and Massachusetts state courts. Testimony in Boston’s Federal District was cited by the Federal Appeals Court in affirming damages verdict in Cole v Snow. Consulted in settlement of three class action suits.

Psychiatric expert in cases of rape, sexual and physical assault. Substantial experience in evaluating the effects of childhood sexual abuse, and the vicissitudes over time of memories of that abuse. Evaluated approximately 100 victims of childhood sexual abuse, including many of the plaintiffs in the clergy sex abuse scandals in Massachusetts. Consulted to private schools around such issues. Studied issues of “repressed memory” of abuse and “false memory syndrome”.

Research and Presentations:

Principal Investigator, Beth Israel Hospital, Department of Psychiatry, Boston, MA.

“Psychiatric and Addictive Problems in Survivors of Childhood Sexual Abuse Perpetrated by Father Porter.”

“Vicissitudes of Memory of Childhood Trauma”.

With Joseph De Rivera, Ph.D.: “Recovery of Memory of Childhood Sexual Abuse and Creation of False Memories; Can These Processes be Distinguished?”.

Presented at various for above, including International Conference at University of New Hampshire, and Seminar at Suffolk University Law School.

3. Addictive Disorders.

Testimony in a number of criminal and civil cases. My testimony in a highly publicized Texas Federal Court case, In re, Cockrum, helped to establish that an individual who was otherwise highly competent, was not competent to act in his own behalf in appealing his murder conviction, as a result of an underlying addictive disorder and suicidal compulsion.

As indicated above in this c.v., I have significant experience in evaluating and treating patients with addictions, including alcoholism. I was subspecialty certified in addictions psychiatry in 1994 (a 10 year certification). For 11 years (1983-1994) I was an attending psychiatrist on an addictions treatment unit and from 1987-1993 I was a supervising psychiatrist in an outpatient department that treated a large number of addicted patients. I was psychiatric director of a day treatment program in addictions from 1992-1994. These commitments involved evaluation, detoxification, and rehabilitation services.

In addition, I consulted to the Professional Recovery Committee and to the Substance Abuse Rehabilitation Program of the Massachusetts Board of Registration in Nursing, in the evaluation of nurses and other licensed professionals who were suspected of having substance abuse problems. I also was referred lawyers for evaluation and treatment from Lawyers Concerned for Lawyers – a committee of the Massachusetts Bar and by the Massachusetts Board of Registration of Medicine. Some of these patients are still in my practice and I remain actively engaged in the evaluation and treatment of addictions on an outpatient basis.

4. Civil Rights Issues

Expert in a number of cases regarding racial and sexual harassment in employment and housing situations, including cases brought by Civil Rights Division of the United States Department of Justice, and by Greater Boston Legal Services, and in strip search procedures by law enforcement and prison personnel.
